

ABSTRACT

Described is the use of in particular homopolymer cycloglycans having a ringshaped base structure of 2 to 40 monosaccharides in the ring, for preventing the 5 invasion and infection of mammal cells by pathogens, and for combating diseases caused by such pathogens, and food compositions, dietetic compositions and pharmaceutical compositions containing these cycloglycans.

10

15